

New technologies

Cheryl Sourkes – Clip 8

What's my approach to new technology? I embrace them it's led me down routes that I never would have guessed existed. They're enabling and frustrating and baffling all at the same time cause everything that I've learnt I've taught myself and I haven't found it easy but when I do a body of work like when I was working on collecting the Interior series as I said before I go to many cameras and I collect many, many, many images so I found this site where marriages were happening a wedding chapel in Las Vegas and I save hundreds of pictures. I would save hundreds of pictures from each wedding and then I'd think... how am I ever going to produce this up? Am I going to pick the one where they walk down the aisle or am I going to pick the one where somebody passes the ring to someone else, am I going to pick the moment where the photographer is taking the pictures at the end? Well so I had to do them all so that's how I got into making movies and it wasn't something that I started off thinking ...look at this stuff, it's streams, I'm going to make movies out of it and the work led me to that, so I've found that the new technologies have been very generating, both as a question what does it mean, how are they changing the world and as a tool.
